 Although over 1000 players have taken part so far in the various tournaments many have not yet played enough games to be rated accurately. All with at least 10 games against other graded players appear in the list above. The gradings are marked with an asterisk until the player has 20 results against graded players when the grading should be accurate within 5 points.

As most players play only 6 or 8 games per season the main list will expand rather slowly. To stimulate further interest an additional supplementary list (above) has been published. These players narrowly missed qualification for the main list but the grades should be treated as fairly inaccurate.

It is intended to implement a master hierarchy, if possible by October, 1977, to categorise in the first instance - Scottish Correspondence Master, and Scottish Correspondence Candidate Master.

The norms required to be attained for these qualifications will be examined and made known.
